

Make better business decisions with the clarity financial statements provide.

Why CRI?

As the most basic level of service we provide, financial statement preparation entails our team pulling your financial data together into your specified financial reporting framework without verifying the accuracy or completeness of the information. The financial statements in these instances will not provide any level of assurance*, with no opinions, conclusions, or reports made on behalf of CRI. While you may share these financials with third parties, the financial statement preparation service is really aimed at giving management a clear visual of current business performance to monitor progress and identify growth opportunities.
