

Focus on what matters for your healthcare entity with a CRI HIPAA compliance assessment.

Why CRI?

HIPAA compliance is a precise process that demands a particular set of skills and experience from its assessment team. CRI's team of HIPAA-focused advisors possess the extensive technical capabilities and knowledge to conduct these assessments while also offering extensive audit experience. These qualifications, combined with our team's background as skilled information security professionals, allow efficient communication with highly technical IT departments while also providing understandable technical requirements and remediation strategies to management and internal audit departments. Furthermore, CRI's team members all maintain the Healthcare Certified Information Systems Security Professional (HCISSP) credential, a specific healthcare security certification that ensures an understanding of auditing healthcare systems and the unique challenges they often present.
