

A community is only as strong as its foundation—back yours with the expertise of CRI’s governmental accounting program management and administration advisors.

Why CRI?

From small municipality work programs to those serving multiple states, and everything in between, CRI’s broad range of governmental accounting program management and administration expertise has your organization covered. We tailor our services to meet your government’s specific needs—some entities only require high-level guidance, while others may prefer to fully outsource their program management and administration. As we get underway, your organization may take notice of the significant involvement burden removed from management that allows them to instead focus their attention on strategy and oversight and decide to even increase our involvement. No matter our level of involvement with your program management and administration, we can adjust throughout the timeline of the engagement to ensure the best level of service for both your government and the communities you serve.
